interZona is an independent publishing house founded in 2002. Our style is modern, innovative, critical: a style that, while cored in Buenos Aires, is gradually being recognized in the rest of Latin America and Spain. We publish literature and contemporary essay. That is: bold writings, writings of today. But also less recent texts, brainstormers that push the present to come up with fresh, far-out ideas. Our catalog is shared by well-established and novel authors; narrator, poets and essayists; Argentine and foreign writers. interZona is free of prejudice, intellectual, ludic. We believe heterogeneity is a good definition for the present. Our book design is compact, dynamic, friendly. We go all out on quality graphics for a literature that is looking to reencounter the pleasures of reading.

"I don't consider myself fundamentally as a professional. I'm basically an adventurer." (Orson Welles)
My company is me, my friends, who give their opinion about my work, the authors who discuss about which cover to use for their work, and my dear ghost writers who have always accompanied me. Together with this group of people, I have achieved a catalog of titles of constant sale, that do not age, ranging from local and Latin American literature to personal improvement books; these are "longsellers" I never stop reprinting them. I like books and I venture into it.

www.vreditoras.com

V&R Editoras knows that feelings do not recognize borders or ages and publishes more than 130 annual new books from its headquarters in Argentina, Mexico and Brazil and at its home in Spain named VR Europa.

Throughout these years, it was deploying new catalog and product lines, ebooks, audiobooks, and different ways of doing business. The launch of VR YA in Spanish and Plataforma 21 in Brazil, produced a key time in the way we communicate, and the recently launched Vera editions of the current romantic novel, re-dimensioned the importance of women's role in their own history, as individuals who desire and live under its own rules.

We are committed to:

- Publish books that makes feel good
- Take care of the content, design and graphic quality
- Be creative and innovative

These were the principles with which we grew up, creating a framework to design positive culture, with creativity and conviction that cultural diversity is one of our strengths.
